

Table of Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	xi
1 Hybrid Intentionality and Exogenous Sources of the Elite’s Manifold Attitudes to Islam in Azerbaijan: Geography, Soviet Legacy, and the Quest for Western Recognition	1
2 The Complicity of the Domestic Populace, Secular Opposition, Civil Society, and the International Community in Reproducing the Religious-Secular Divide and the Representation of Islam as a Threat	53
3 The Contextual Dialectics of Elite Attitudes toward Islam in Azerbaijan	73
4 The Dynamics of Change: The Bridging of the Religious- Secular Divide and the Normalization of Islamic Discourse across Azerbaijan’s Social-Political Landscape	89
5 The Normalization of Islamic Discourse and the Future of Islam in Azerbaijan: Quo Vadis?	127
6 A Shared Landscape of Islamism across the Secularized Middle East	145
Bibliography	151
Index	173
About the Author	179